What to LOOK FOR When Hiring a Brain Injury Lawyer

The debilitating nature of brain injuries means they can follow victims throughout their lives.

The debilitating nature of brain injuries means they can follow victims throughout their lives. That's because the brain is so complex and intricate that doctors still don't know enough about it to know for certain how and for how long a particular injury will affect a patient. Because of this uncertainty, estimating the cost of a traumatic brain injury (TBI) can be complicated. Just one impact or fall can bring on a concussion, chronic migraines, memory problems, mobility issues, paralysis or even death. The long-term impact is not always known.

What is known is the high cost of medical bills that accompany such injuries. That's why it's so important to locate the best advocate for your case. Knowing which Riverside County brain injury lawyer to hire starts with research. Here are a few things to look for before making such a critical decision.

What Kind of Case Do You Have?

All TBI cases will vary. Some that seem minor at first glance, maybe involving a bad bump on the head and suspected concussion, may continue to get worse as the days wear on. With other injuries, you're left with no doubt that something very serious has happened, like those arising from a crash with a semi-truck or blow to the head from a violent attack. Make sure your search guides you to a personal injury attorney who has experience with your type of case. Your Riverside County brain injury lawyer can tap into his or her network of medical experts in order to bring a fully-researched case to fruition.

What Type of Injury Do You Have and What are the Symptoms?

Your attorney can distinguish, with the help of a doctor, the type of injury you have based on the symptoms you're experiencing. TBIs can be quite mild, or right in the middle at moderate, or at the high end of the spectrum at severe. This will depend on the manner in which you received the TBI as well as the symptoms you are displaying. Not all symptoms show up right away, which compounds the complexity. While you may feel dizzy after an injury, you may suffer chronic headaches or minor mobility impairment afterwards. Your Riverside County brain injury attorney can consult with your doctors to fully understand the severity of your injury and estimated medical bill outlook.

Does the Lawyer Take an Aggressive Approach?

TBIs are serious – some of the worst injuries you can sustain. You don't have time to wait for the insurance company to offer you what you deserve. That's why you need an attorney who will use any and all means necessary to demand an amount best in line with your injuries – and stick with that amount no matter what red tape is put up. Your attorney will know, based on advice from your doctor, what financial reward will give you and your family the highest quality of life possible.

- ✓ Rehabilitation

Does the Lawyer Have Targeted Expertise?

Locating a lawyer who has the resources to fully optimize the value of your TBI case is critical. You need someone who will make appropriate referrals to medical specialists such as radiologists and neurologists. They also pull from extensive experience with not just brain injuries but the accidents that cause them, whether that involves another car, person, or motorcycle.
